FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Janus International Announces New Rolling Steel Division

(Temple, GA – April 15, 2008) Janus International has announced the addition of a new line of rolling steel doors to the commercial and industrial markets. The Rolling Steel Division, occupying a brand new 252,000 sq.ft. facility, will manufacture a full line of slat doors, including medium-duty service doors, full-duty service doors, insulated doors, fire doors, fire shutters and counter shutters.

“The addition of rolling steel to the Janus suite of sheet door products is a natural evolution,” states Dan Beckley, Vice President of Sales, Rolling Steel Division. “The demand for the strength and security of a rolling steel door is increasing, and we’re introducing features not currently available in the marketplace”. Some features of the new MD series include 20,000 spring cycles and staked curtain slats to minimize lateral movement. Our service door series will feature installer-friendly headplates, and our fire door line-up will include the Janus Sure-Set™ Hoist.

Manufacturing is currently centralized in the Temple, GA, headquarters, with expansion plans to follow in the Texas and Arizona locations.
