Powder Coating Notice

In the interest of our customers, Janus does not recommend the selection of the following powder coating processes:

Metallic finishes – metallic coatings have been tested and found to provide an inconsistent finish. Such an inconsistent finish is not in line with Janus standards.

Painting over hot dipped galvanize –the heat of the powder coat oven can cause the hot dipped galvanize to turn soft in spots, affecting the durability of the product.

While either of these processes is certainly possible, we respectfully reiterate that Janus testing measures have found both to be substandard.

Should you wish to order either process, the following release form must be submitted with your order.
